JUDGE AND DOCTOR.

ALIVELY FRACAS CH MAIN STREET YESTERDAY.

Yesterday afternoon about 1;30 a very lively fracas took place at the foot of Doctor Uninans' stairs between the doctor and Judge Bigelow. Caief Justice of the Supreme Court.

As the Judge was passing the Doctor stepped up an engaged in conversation with him. A few minutes later the two were punching each others faces at a rate that brought a dozen spectators to the spot. But the men were very much in earnest in the fight and the Judge although a little man was dead game and standing up to his work well. How he milt would have terminated is still a matter of conjecture, had not the byst-inders interrupted and seperated the combatants. As they were pulled apart the Judge was still on the war path and endeavoring tomake through the ranks of the peace-makers to get at the Doctor.

"You've insulted me several times on the street" he said and I will stand no more of your lying in inuations." "I only said you falsitiod the record in my case" was the reply. "You are a d-dirty liar, was the quick rejoinder. Herethe crawd a rain got between the pair and the Judge finally walked on up the street.

The Judges face was smudged ever where his eight had been smushed onto his cheek and the Doctor bleeding from the neck.

The trouble graw out of he case over the contested school board seat which Doctor Guinantook to the Supreme Court, the decision was a rainst him and he blamed Judge Bigelow for the adverse ruling.

Humboldt County Bonds.

Twenty years ago Humboldt county issued $52,000 ten per cent bonds to pay for building a court-house. These bonds are yet outstanding, the interest only having been payed. The bonds mature in July next and the Board of Commissioners is making Chairman to negotiate the sale of $52,rate of five p r cent per annum.

Humboldt county, though owing a bunded debt of $52,000, is one of the most prosperous in the State. Its population and taxable property increased last year, notwithstanding the dull times, and its bonds ought to sell as readily and command as high a premium as those of the United POLITICAL INNOUNCEMENTS States Government. The rate of interest indicates the change that has taken place in Nevada in the last twenty years. In 1875 ten per cent was considered a low rate of interest even on such gilt edge securities as Humboldt county bonds: now the Commissioners expect to negotiate the saie of new bonds at five per cent annum and probably dispose of them at False Charge.

The Reno Gazette is still gnashing its teeth over the results of the State election. It opened its mud batteries on the Silver Party early in the Spring with the idea that the leaders of the party would purchase the plant of the paper to prevent it destroying the Silyer Party. But no one had any use josing candidates in the same camand froth during the Summer with no overtures for its purchase.

Now it is trying to persuade the voters that the Ex-Democrats have captured all the spoils and the Ex-Repub icans have received nothing.

The Gazette seems to overlook the fact that our two United States Senators and Congressman are Ex-Republicans. The Governor, an Ex-Republican, was placed on the head of the State ticket. The division has been about as equally m de as possible, but silver men do not stop to consider who their companion in arms were prior to the chrystalization of the Silver Party.

The past has been wiped out and buried utterly, and the best thing the Reno Gazette can do is to treat itself as the silver men have treated their past political affiliations. Burial is the only remedy.

The Acme of Innocence.

Yesterday the News sent a young lady out to try her hand at digging up Capitol news. The sweet and dainty little creature had learned that GeorgeMe Laughlin had been several days changing the combination of the State safes.

She accordingly called on the Treasarers office and interviewed Mr. We sterfield.

"I believe you are the new State Treasurer sir."

"Yes madam I believe I was elected" said the Treasurer beaming with his sweetest smile on his fair visitor. "I understand you changed the combination of your safe to-day, is this a fact," continued the lady pulling out a gilt edged note book and a ente little pencil attached by a velvet

"Have you the new combination here in the office."

"Er- yee-s I believe I have."

"Will you please give me the combination," she continued as she leaned forward and placed the point of the pencil on the virgin page of the note book.

Mr. Westerfield took a couple of breaths, a short and long one and said, "Eat" in a peculiar and uncer-

"The safe combination is the new one. The silver party combination I

"What do you want to do with it?" "Oh I want to publish it in the News we are going to get all the new com-binations in the building. I am going to see Mr. Howell, about the States Prison combination. I know he'll give it to me if I ask htm."

"Then I understand these combinastatement: "I made no street attack tions are called the Flannery combination and a so the Bell combination. Can you give me these?"

"Madam, Mr. Howell will give you our safe combinations with the Secretary of State, and they are placed on sent you. Just mention my name and it will be all right."

The little lady tripped out with a pleasant "Thank you, you're so good."

Already dress-makers are being engaged to make gowns for the Inaugural Ball.
